KILIMANJARO – MARANGU ROUTE

Marangu is the only route which Uses sleeping huts in dormitory style accommodations. There are 60 bunk beds each at Mandara and Kibo Huts, and 120 bunk beds at Horombo Hut (because only Horombo Hut is used on descent). Guests are supplied with mattresses and pillows, The huts have communal dining halls and basic washrooms, ranging from flushing toilets and running water at the lower huts to long drop toilets and buckets of water at Kibo Hut. but sleeping bags are still required,

The Route is also known as the "Coca-Cola" route, Marangu approaches Kilimanjaro from the southeast. It is the oldest, most well established route. Many prefer Marangu because it is considered to be the easiest route on the mountain, given its gradual slope and direct path. The minimum days required for this route is 5 days, although the probability of successfully reaching the top in that time period is quite low. An extra acclimatization day on the mountain is highly recommended.

Day 1, Marangu Gate – Mandara Hut (8,875 ft)

After Breakfast drive with the Crew to Marangu Gate, where you enter Kilimanjaro National Park and start your climb. trek takes 4-5 hours through tropical rainforest to reach Mandara Hut.

- Elevation: 1860m/6100ft to 2700m/8875ft
- Distance: 8km/5mi

Day 2, Mandara Hut – Horombo Hut (12,201 ft)

Second day fairly steep climb through the last of the rainforest up to alpine meadows dotted with giant heather.

Further on, the environment changes to open heath with stunted vegetation before opening out to bleak moorland.

Climbing approximately 1,000m in altitude, slow walking (POLE POLE) in order to acclimatize properly. 6-7 hour hike to reach Horombo Hut.

- Elevation: 2700m/8875ft to 3700m/12,200ft
- Distance: 12km/7.5mi

Day 3 : Rest Day at Horombo Hut

Acclimatizing hike to Mawenzi Peak and back to Horombo Hut, The walk takes 4-5 hours a round trip and will go till to an altitude of 4,600Mts then you will return back to Horombo Hut for Dinner and Overnight this walk will put you in good shape later on.

Day 4, Horombo Hut – Kibo Hut (15,463 ft)

The terrain changes to rocky and rugged and giant groundsels and lobelias make their appearance. The trail skirts Mawenzi Peak, before crossing a stark, almost lunar landscape and the tundra desert of ‘the saddle’.

The hike to Kibo Hut takes 5 to 7 hours and the views from the saddle are breathtaking. Make this an early night – your attempt on Uhuru Peak starts at midnight.

- Elevation: 3700m/12,200ft to 4700m/15,500ft
- Distance: 9km/5.5mi

Day 5, Kibo Hut – SUMMIT (19,340 ft) – Horombo Hut (12,201 ft)

AMKA !Soon after midnight, you will be awakened by your guides to start the zigzag trek up a long scree slope. After 2 hours you should reach Hans Meyer’s Cave and from here the gradient gets steeper. Continue your climb for approximately another 3 hours to Gilman’s Point and you will be rewarded by the dramatic sight of the rising sun reflecting off the ice fields

Walk along the crater rim for another couple of hours to reach your goal – Uhuru Peak, towering at 19,340 ft. After congratulating yourself and your companions on this great achievement, descend to Kibo Hut for rest and refreshment before continuing to Horombo Hut for your last night on the mountain..

- Elevation: 4700m/15,500ft to 5895m/19,340ft
- Down to 3700m/12,200ft

Day 6, Horombo Hut – Marangu Gate

After a leisurely breakfast, make your final descent across the alpine meadow, past Mandara Hut and on down through the rainforest to Marangu Gate, where your driver and vehicle will be waiting to transfer you back to Moshi

- Elevation: 3700m/12,200ft to 1700m/5500ft
- Distance: 20km/12.5mi
